

Monitor the Health of Connectors

Last Modified on 12/16/2019 8:58 pm EST

The recommended way to monitor the health of a connector is to create a formula. Here is a JSON example of a health check formula. You can import this into your account and play around. It is designed to run every 15 minutes and make an API call against an instance and send an email if the request fails.
