

Google Drive - How to upload a file to a shared folder

Last Modified on 02/01/2021 4:34 pm EST

If you would like to upload a file to a folder that has been shared with you, this can be done using the POST /files endpoint, provided that you have edit permissions on the folder. You will need to provide the `folderId` you would like to upload to, as well as the path. The path will be used relative to the `folderId` and will be used as the name of the file upload. For example, a path of `"/myNewFile"` in the folder with id 1234 would result in a file named `"myNewFile"` in the folder with id 1234. In order to make use of the `folderId` you will also need to set `calculateFolderPath` to `false`.
